Ek Tha Tiger is a 2012 Indian action thriller film directed by Kabir Khan and produced under the banner of Eros International. The film features Salman Khan and Katrina Kaif in lead roles with Ranvir Shorey, Roshan Seth and Giselli Monteiro appearing in supporting roles. The story is about a chase around the world for an elusive criminal mastermind from India to Europe, America and back to India again. The film released on 16 January 2012, and was unsuccessful at the box office. In the film's pre-credits sequence, an Indian man who is being chased by a force from Mumbai, calls his friend and partner (played by Salman Khan) and tells him that he has been arrested by the police. The latter does not know what has happened and relays his situation to Inspector Sartaj Singh (Shah Rukh Khan) who says that he will take over responsibility of the latter; he then hangs up. Later, Inspector Singh is shown searching for a notorious criminal named "Tiger" (Ranvir Shorey). Singh meets a drug lord, Kabir Thakur (Kay Kay Menon), who tells him that Tiger has kidnapped his daughter, Natasha (Giselli Monteiro). He also reveals that the only way to find her is by revealing Tiger's identity. Singh goes to Mumbai Chief Minister Prithvi Raj Chauhan (Vijay Raaz) who tells him that he is aware of who Tiger actually is. He gives Singh his briefing on how to deal with the situation. Singh then traces the call made by "Tiger" and finds out that he was in Vadodara, so he leaves immediately for Vadodara. Singh goes to his hideout and finds Natasha, however she refuses to leave with Singh. Singh then tells her that he is not Tiger (in Tiger's voice) and finally tracks down "Tiger". He comes face-to-face with the criminal mastermind who tries to escape by jumping off the building. Singh manages to catch him, but he falls into a pool of water below. As Singh gets out of the pool, Natasha again refuses to leave with him due to Tiger's refusal; both are then surrounded by Inspector Sartaj's men. When Inspector Singh arrives at Hiranandani Hospital, Kabir Thakur tells Sartaj about a nurse named Preeti Sharma (Roshan Seth). Inspector Singh then meets Preeti and tells her that he needs her help to catch Tiger. She agrees and then goes to Mumbai with Singh. Singh tries to explain what he needs from her, but she refuses and says that she won't help him by calling his name and using his voice (this is the reason why "Tiger" does not recognize Inspector Singh when they first meet). Inspector Singh then promises that he will not harm her, only when Tiger is in custody will he return her. He then calls Tiger's phone with Preeti's assistance, which fools the latter into believing that "Tiger" is in fact Inspector Sartaj.
